

Trade Instructor

What will I be doing?

Our trade instructors induct and train prisoners to use machinery in our state-of-the-art Prison Industries workshops.

As a trade instructor, you will act as a role model and instill pride and a sense of self-worth in prisoners – which plays an important role in their rehabilitation.

Our instructors ensure that when prisoners leave our correctional centres, they have gained life and job skills to enable them to work and lead productive, crime-free lives.

What qualifications do I need?

You must hold a relevant trade qualification to be a trade instructor, in a field including, but not limited to, metal work, carpentry or machinery.

As a trainee trade instructor you are required to complete the 10 week full-time Custodial Officer Entry Program (COEP) through the QCS Academy which consists of range of academic, scenario-based written and physical assessments.

I'm qualified now what do I do?

Once you have passed all assessments and successfully completed the COEP you will be deployed to commence duty at an appointed correctional centre.

Over the next 10 months you will expand your skills and knowledge with further training and development, and demonstrate competence to complete the Certificate III in Correctional Practice (Custodial).
